

Moderation guidelines for QRIC's social media pages

QRIC supports the terms of service and policies of Facebook, LinkedIn and Google. We ask other social media users to do the same.

In order to ensure QRIC's social media pages remain friendly, informative and welcoming for all visitors, we moderate pages when needed.

QRIC encourages discussion and opinion sharing via QRIC's social media pages, however, spam will be removed. Spam includes unrelated information, excessively posting large quantities of questions after an answer has been provided, defamatory posts and comments, business promotion or promotion of another page.

We ask that when contributing your views to QRIC's social media pages, you ensure that you:

- do not harass, abuse, threaten or discriminate against other social media users including QRIC's employees
- do not post items that are likely to offend others
- do not use obscene, offensive, or inappropriate language
- do not post repeat comments continuously
- do not post or tag QRIC excessively as this impedes the ability for others to utilise the selected page to communicate with us
- do not promote commercial interests, advertisements, or endorsements of anything that is not related to QRIC
- protect the personal privacy of yourself and others, by not publicly posting personal information, such as names, email addresses, phone numbers and home addresses on QRIC's social media pages.

Failing to adhere to the above guidelines will result in moderation and potential banning/blocking from our pages, untagging of QRIC's name and removal of posts from QRIC's social media page.
